Background: Human Lin28, encoded by the LIN28 gene, is a cytoplasmic mRNA-binding protein with a cold shock domain and two CHCC-type zinc fingers. It has been shown to enhance translation of IGF-2 mRNA and to block processing of let-7 microRNA. Lin28 is a marker for undifferentiated embryonic stem cells, and Lin28 expression has been used to enhance the generation of induced pluripotent stem (iPS) cells.

Applications:

(A) Indirect ELISA detection of immobilized Lin28 peptide immunogen with titrated amounts of Lin28 monoclonal antibody (PR-3D1). No binding is seen to irrelevant peptide conjugated to ovalbumin carrier protein.

(B) Western blot detection of Lin28 using 2.0 μ g/ml Lin28 mAb (PR-3D1):

(1) 4 μ g untransfected HEK-293 cell lysate, (2) 4 μ g HEK-293-Lin28 transfectant cell lysate, (3) 20 μ g NTERA-2 cell lysate, and (4) 10 μ g murine F9 cell lysate. Lin28 has been reported to run at ~30 kDa (higher than predicted).

(C) Specific detection of Lin28 in transfected HEK-293 cell lysates (non-denatured) printed on Spots On Dots™ nitrocellulose membrane.
